

Felipe Massa with Iveco in South America

Ferrari's Brazilian racing driver Felipe Massa will become Iveco's testimonial in Brazil, Argentina and Venezuela.

This choice will be announced today at the International Fenatran Transport Salon in San Paolo (Brazil), during an encounter with the press, featuring the Brazilian driver, Iveco Chief Executive Paolo Monferino and Iveco Vice President for Latin America Marco Mazzù.

The agreement covers both below-the-line and above-the-line communications activities, with the Formula One driver being associated with the Iveco brand in business and specialised press advertising and in marketing material for use in the network of Iveco concessionaries, as well as with Felipe Massa's live participation in events organised by Iveco.

This initiative is a further step in the collaboration between the two Companies that already has lveco performing as a Ferrari official supplier: the mythical red racing cars from Maranello are accompanied and transported in all their logistic operations by lveco vehicles – naturally painted red for the occasion: the exclusive Ferrari red featured on its racing cars.

The lveco fleet dedicated to the Ferrari Racing Team comprises smaller commercial Daily vans, Stralis heavy commercial vehicles, Irisbus Proxys minibuses, and a motorhome for the drivers, made by Iveco Irisbus based on the Domino Grantourism Coach.

The marketing operation linking the Brazilian driver with lveco underlines the company's resolve to reinforce already positive market results by boosting its image in Brazil, Argentina and Venezuela through the confirmation of its company values: determination, reliability, outstanding performance and team spirit.
