TESTING
There is a wide range of remanufactured products on the market, but only those who really know commercial vehicle components - those responsible for designing them - can create an efficient process. With extensive experience gained in recent decades in the careful selection of materials and suppliers and the use of cutting-edge technologies, Iveco breathes new life into engines, gearboxes, turbo’s, injectors and many other components, offering a viable alternative to new products.

REMANUFACTURED, NOT REPAIRED: QUALITY AND RELIABILITY AS NEW

At Iveco, regeneration is an industrialised process that ensures technical specifications and regulation standards included in the original design are followed. A comprehensive commissioning process on designated test benches certifies high quality, ensuring remanufactured Iveco replacement parts will offer the same performance, distance and emissions as the components of a brand new system.

MAINTENANCE AND WARRANTY

As further proof of the high standards and reliability of remanufactured parts, both service intervals and warranty conditions are identical to those for new parts.

SUSTAINABLE SAVINGS

The reduced environmental impact resulting from the restoration and re-use of components is clear; with around 1200 tons less raw materials used each year, with a related drop in CO₂ emissions. Using remanufactured parts is a sustainable choice; the environment benefits while you save money.
