IVECO was crowned once again winner of the FIA European Truck Championship 2019, repeating its success at the 2018 edition. It has dominated the FIA European Truck Racing Championship 2019 with the Die Bullen von IVECO Team, which took the lead right from the first event in Misano and maintained its position throughout the season to win the Championship title with its victory at the penultimate event in Le Mans, one week before the final Grand Prix in Jarama.

Thanks to the exceptional performance of Jochen Hahn, who clocked up 13 victories – at least one per event – and 18 more podium placements, IVECO is also in first place in the Drivers' ranking, as the pilot claimed the title of FIA European Truck Racing Champion for the sixth time. Steffi Halm, in her second season as team leader of the Schwabentruck team, achieved a total of 11 podium placements and improved on last year's sixth place by finishing in fourth position in the overall Drivers' ranking.

Gerrit Marx, President Commercial and Specialty Vehicles, commented: "We are very proud of the outstanding results achieved by the Die Bullen von IVECO Team on our Stralis trucks, which have proved once again its capacity to compete at the highest levels, reliably and consistently delivering winning performances. It was a great team effort of the many technicians, engineers and mechanics who have worked alongside the pilots, which has been rewarded with another title in the European Truck Race Championship. Well done to all!"
